Create a Library Catalog Account

Order resources directly from other libraries in the GMILCS Consortium through the library catalog.
If the book you have found in the library catalog is one that Danforth Library does not own, but one of the consortium libraries does, you can order it through the library catalog.
You need to have a consortium account to do this.

If you have not set up an account, select My Account from the top navigation bar and select Log In / Register.
Your NEC ID card is your library card.

If you have a library card but do not yet have a password, click here to create a password.

Please pick up your interlibrary loan items promptly – it’s not always possible to extend the loan if you are not done using them.

It is very important that you return the items you have borrowed on time. Failure to return items in a timely manner can jeopardize our participation in the interlibrary loan program.
